Who is this child we call Christ?

By William E. Barnes
Associate Pastor
First Baptist Church
Belle Glade, Florida

For nearly two thousand years now most people all over the world have found Christmas a special time. We are told that the very celebration of Jesus' birthday has at times caused even how to lay down their weapons and jobs in the slaying of warlike. Many people find occasion to seek a place of worship. Many find occasion to give and exchange gifts ranging all the way from novelty to treasure. Celebration of His birthday is almost always synonymous with lifting of voices in songs of joy. Beautiful lights and bright decorations appear. Most people lift their hands a bit higher and stop lives and the heart is most often made lighter. All this because of the birth of a mere baby boy? Not hardly! Certainly the birth of a baby brings joy but this was anything but an ordinary birth.

There are many unique things surrounding Jesus' birth. First, it was foretold by the prophets Isaiah and others many years prior to his coming. Second, it was an immediate conception for Mary was a virgin. Some wondered? Mary thought it was for she asked the question "How shall this be, seeing I know not a man?" (Luke 1:34). In verse 37 the angel answered her by saying, "For with God nothing shall be impossible." Third, an angel announced this event on at least three occasions, to Mary, to Joseph, and angelically to the shepherds in the field. Fourth, His was a humble birth in a stall, thus making it within the identifying realm of ALL men who seek to be partly to it. Fifth, it is, has been and will always be the beginning of the very heart of HOPE for ALL mankind. Matthew records the angel as having told Joseph that: "Thou shalt call His name JESUS: for He shall save His people from their sins." (Chapter 1:21).

Who is Jesus? He is God become man for man's sake. There's an old story of a husband who upon declining his wife's invitation to attend the annual Christmas service, stood to watch as she disappeared into the cold snowy night. The silence was broken by the sound of thumping. Investigation revealed a group of swallows flying into the plate glass window trying to escape the snow and cold. As they would hit the window they would fall to the ground, slip around and then once more regain their strength to try again. Not far away the man knew that his bare would house and protect the birds. He went out, turned on the light and opened the barn door. Much to his dismay the birds ignored the light and the open door. Efforts to herd these birds were only made them scatter. He was tried and frustrated. He returned to the house and continued to view the debacle. He thought, "How can I communicate with them to make them see that safety is only a few feet away?" As he contemplated the problem the thought came very suddenly, "If only I could be a bird for a few moments I could lead them to safety."

Christmas is God becoming man. His creation, in order to graphically communicate His love. Today the significance of Christmas only comes into focus as a person asks the question, "Who is Jesus Christ to me?" Jesus asked His disciples, "Whom do ye say that I am?" Peter answered, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God." SO BE IT!

The lights of the city

"Silent Night, Holy Night" the song goes and if the streets of Belle Glade haven't been holly, they have been silent during the wee hours of the mornings and the lights along Main are certainly Christmasy. With the coming of this special season again, and with the last minute hectic rush of shopping over, this is a good time to pause and reflect on a less well-lighted scene 2,000 years ago. There was no mistletoe, no holly, no evergreen trees in homes on that first Christmas. There was no tinsel, no garlands and no special decorations. The only light, as we hear, came from an exceedingly bright star in the East. But it was special just the same. It was special because in a cold, earth-floored cavernous in a small Middle East village, a child was born... a child who would change the history of the world and whose teachings became the basis for a world-wide religion. This is why we celebrate Christmas and if Christmas is for children, it's only because we're all God's Children.

Wilderness area given

Thanks to C.A. "Mutt" Thomas, pure Glades school children will be able to see a wilderness area in a natural state without having to travel to the coast to do so. Thomas is donating the use of an area of land adjacent to John Stretch Park in Lake Harbor to the Palm Beach County School system which will be used as a wilderness area.

The idea of the area will be to allow students to see what the Glades looked like before the area was settled and put to the plow according to West Area Administrator James Maynor.

Maynor and Mrs. J.W. Mosley Jr., who is on Maynor's staff, said the small area already contains much of the flora and fauna native to the Glades, including an alligator or two, and more will be introduced and labeled.

The biggest job facing the schools before the area can be used, Maynor said, is clearing several paths through the area and cutting through thick stands of maldenacae, or saplings.

Maynor said the county is allocating some $1,000 for the mini-project, written by Mrs. Mosley, and he hopes the work can be done to some extent by students and the area in full use by the beginning of next school year.

The West Allen Environmental Study Center, as the area will be known, will be used by nine schools in the area for students in the fourth through eighth grades.

The students will identify and make photographic and written records of plant and animal life.

Consultants from the Bureau of Environmental Education of the state department of education, the Central and Southern Food Control District, the USDA Soil and Water Conservation Service and The Pan Joe Environmental Science Center will help set up the project.

Christmas and kids

Four-year old Rona was one of more than 100 children in the Migrant Child Education Program who were visited by Santa Claus last week and she shows the photographer the goodies Santa put in her stocking. Rona is a member of one of the program's classes at Gove Elementary School and the class is taught by Mrs. Eileen Huff, who made the arrangements for Santa to make the visit. More pictures and details are inside today's Herald.

Graham receives real estate honor

Belle Glade realtor Jim Graham has just received the professional designation of AFPR (Awarded Farm and Land Broker).

This designation is awarded only to Realtors who have shown a high degree of expertise in the sale, exchange and analysis of acreage and commercial properties.

The Realtor who becomes an AFPR must complete required educational courses, pass comprehensive examinations and meet rigid qualifications.

He becomes knowledgeable in tax sheltering, before and after tax cash flows and internal rates of return.

Graham is also involved in other sophisticated real estate investment courses and in August was awarded his GRI designation. (Graduate of the Realtors Institute).

When asked why he is pursuing investment education, Mr. Graham replied: "For two reasons - first, the average acreage or commercial buyer today is a sophisticated investor. When selling these properties you can't fool today's investor by just lying him over the property in a plane and saying 'Isn't it pretty and doesn't it have a good location?' Today's investor wants to know bottom line figures on negative or positive cash flows, what are his tax advantages and most important, how did you arrive at those figures."

"My second reason is that day's real estate salesman is hungry to learn more about the real estate business. More than just simply 'take off' while buying a few houses. Unless he's knowledgeable himself in investment analysis, it's almost impossible for him to help his customers grow."

Father son, father son In South Bay picture

A son was hired to replace his father and a father was considered to replace his son during a special Friday night, South Bay City Commission meeting.

The three commissioners present voted to accept August V. Dreeson's resignation from the dual post of city manager and police chief and moved to hire Lomas Harrelle Jr. to replace his father as head of the city's streets and parks.

Dreeson also introduced his father, August H. Dreeson, who was city manager in the Dade town of Medley while the younger Dreeson was police chief there, and the commissioners accepted the elder Dreeson's application for the city manager's job in South Bay.

Commissioners Donald Tanner and O'Neal Walker voted, 2-1 over the objection of Mayor Vernita Cox, to accept Dreeson's recommendation to hire Harrelle Jr. for $14,300 a year on a three-year contract.

Commissioner Woodrow "Woody" O'Neal and Neal Mayo weren't present at the special meeting. O'Neal was working and Mayo asked her of the telephone if the commissioners could withhold action since he couldn't be present.

Dreeson began the meeting by passing around pictures he had taken in New York of one of four water plants Harrelle supervises and commented the plant is half the size of South Bay's plant, with twice the water treatment capacity.

Dreeson had once before recommended the city hire Harrelle Jr. but the commission at that time tabled the idea.

Mrs. Cox, in explaining her "no" vote, said she didn't believe Harrelle should be hired when the other two commissioners weren't present to voice their opinions.

She also said Water and Sewer Commissioner Mayo had been taking action to "bring the plant into the budget" but said she didn't know exactly what he'd done or how successful he had been.

Utility Caretakers, Inc. of Lancaster were hired in June to operate the city's two utility plants when the city commissioners fired then-city utilities director Ed Balmer.

The company is paid $2,900 a month to handle the position.

Walker, before he made the motion to hire Harrelle, said the former South Bay resident would be valuable to the city as a consultant on the water and sewer plants even in streets and parks remain his primary concern.

Show 'em how

South Bay will once again be without the services of a city manager, following the resignation of August Dreeson. But we would would the city isn't back to square one.

Square one was where the city didn't have a manager and the commission didn't want one...or at least enough members of the commission to be effective didn't want one.

We believe Dreeson has accomplished enough during his short occupancy of the manager's job to show how valuable the services of a good administrator are to the community.

We aren't the first to say that but we heartily agree with Don Tanner, the commissioner who did say it when Dreeson submitted his resignation.

Tanner said after the meeting he wasn't completely convinced when Dreeson was appointed to the city manager's job, as well as his police chief's position, he was the one for the job, but he said he had decided Dreeson was the best applicant the city had to turn to.

At the same time, he said that when he was running for office many of the city voters he contacted told him the one thing they felt the city needed was a city manager.

We believe Dreeson has proven just how badly the city does need an administrator and we hope the city acts with all due haste to fill the vacuum.

We're early!

While our deadline for this newspaper is Thursday, Dec. 26, that is for publication purposes only. This week you received your Belle Glade Herald two days early.

We were on the streets Monday evening and into your homes and mail boxes Tuesday morning, the day before Christmas.

We did this so that you could enjoy the Christmas greetings from many of your friends from across the Glades. We also felt that we had a wealth of very interesting and worthwhile material this year about Christmas.

We at the Herald wish you all a Merry Christmas and a happy new year and hope you enjoy reading this special Christmas edition as much as we enjoy bringing it to you.

Christmas Comes to the Holy Land

Letters to the editor

Dear Sir:
Informed persons are shocked to see that many members of the Congress...

TV Networks, and many papers ask for considerably large sums in the U.S. defense budget...

inadequate because of inflation.

Those circles ignore the fact that the military strength of Soviet Russia is increasing...

a very considerable extent daily. In fact, they aspire to achieve the unilateral disarmament of the United States...

Epitome of the fact that the Russian Communists consider all international agreements...

scraps of paper. Those who assault our entire defense system and the Pentagon overlook the positive facts that Soviet Russia has violated...

many international agreements and has occupied Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and other countries in Eastern Europe...

The time has come to realize that American citizens have their most important civil right to enjoy immunity from the nuclear attacks of our arch-enemy-Soviet Russia.

Therefore, our national security should be the first of our priorities. Concerned citizens should ask the members of Congress to increase the U.S. defense budget considerably in order to secure our national survival.

Sincerely,
Dr. Alexander V. Berks

Berry's World

For real growth...

"Productivity must improve if we are to have a healthy economy. In the long run, it is the only way we can raise wages without inflationary price increases. It is essential in creating new jobs and increasing real wages. In a growing economy, everyone—labor, management and the community—wins when productivity expands."

—President Gerald R. Ford, commencement address, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, August 30, 1974

Not-so-fond memories of earlier school daze

I hate gooey goodbyes but one thing I dislike even more is to see the community lose a valuable public servant.

As South Bay City Commissioner O'Neal Walker said the other night, the city's police department is better organized now than it has been since I first came to the Glades.

By the same token, the city has been moving more rapidly toward solving long-standing problems over the past few weeks than any time in my memory.

If for no other reason than those, I'd hate to see Gus Dreeson go.

Several of us were talking Friday night after the city commission had accepted his resignation when Gus mentioned the good relations he's had with the press during the past 13 months.

I don't believe he's received any unfavorable publicity since he's been here. I know I've never panned him and the reason is simple.

One of the first things I remember about Gus was his recommendation the city buy a smaller car for the police force. That was an agreeable surprise and he hasn't changed since.

If he'd ever been caught out using his office in any way which would've been illegal or immoral, he would've read about it in the papers. I never even heard so much as a rumor of anything of the sort.

The last I heard, Gus hasn't decided where he's going exactly but it'll probably be either Nevada or Arizona, where the climate should make his wife more comfortable.

Where ever he finally settles down, he shouldn't have much trouble finding a job.

Alright, all you athletic types, listen up!

Just got the word on the hardest competition coming up—the musclemen's world—but women can get into it too, Karen.

The Second Annual Watermelon Seed Spitting Contest will be held at Sea World in Orlando at 3:30 p.m., Feb. 2. That's the latest word from the Florida Watermelon Growers and Distributors Association and I know you've been waiting with bated breath.

So unbate your breath and tune up the oil spitting muscles. The word I have is that official spitting seeds will be provided so don't carry your own. Now for the other rules.

You can't use any form of pipe, tube or other aids. This one's gotta be freehand...or is that freepit?

You get one extra chance if you swallow a seed by sucking in

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

instead of blowing out, but only one piece seed.

Denture wearers whose teeth go farther than the seed are out of luck. The distance the seed travels is the only thing counted.

All spitters will spit from an erect position. You can't run, skip or broad jump to get a head start and there'll be no laying down on the job if you please or even if you don't please.

They do say all forms of spitting are acceptable, though. That means anything from simply blowing the seed through the teeth, to blowing it out the corner of the mouth to blowing from a wide open mouth...if you can get any distance that way.

I guess this is still another place where Pucker Power counts.

Run across something the other day which just shows to go ya women have come of age...at least women teachers have come a long way from 1915. The item was 12 rules for employment for women teachers and they speak for themselves.

...1. You will not marry during the term of your contract.

...2. You are not to keep company with men.

...3. You must be home between the hours of 5 p.m. and 6 a.m., unless attending a school function.

...4. You may not loiter downtown in ice cream store.

...5. You may not travel beyond the city limits, unless you have permission of the chairman of the board.

...6. You may not ride in a carriage or automobile with any man, unless he is your father or brother.

...7. You may not smoke cigarettes.

...8. You may not dress in bright colors.

...9. You may under no circumstances dye your hair.

...10. You must wear two petticoats.

...11. Your dresses must not be any shorter than two inches above the ankle.

...12. To keep the school room neat and clean, you must:

...Sweep the floor at least once daily.

...Scrub the floor at least once a week with hot soapy water.

...Clean the blackboards at least once a day.

...And start the fire at 7 a.m. so the room will be warm by 8 a.m.

—Adapted from PTA Magazine "In Having A Good Day."

On the other hand, we wonder about where the beauty contests are going.

The people at Palm Beach Junior College really did it. They really did it. The 1974 Miss Wishing Well is a mister.

Marc Bressler of Tequesta, complete with a humorous anecdote, was sponsored by the Beachcomber but said he was "very, very surprised" at the outcome.

"I was just thinking of helping to raise money for the kids in the Center (for Early Learning)," he said.

Aw, g'wan ya chilly thavage!

Glades growers named by FFVA

A number of Glades growers have been named to work on the 12 functional committees of the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association, with two of the more important committees being chaired by Glades men.

George H. Wedgworth, president of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida and past president of the Florida Sugar Cane League, is chairman of the FFVA labor committee.

Roy Vandegrift Jr. of Canal Point is chairman of the transportation and energy resources committee. E.A. McCabe, executive vice president of Pioneer Growers Cooperative, is the vice chairman of that committee.

McCabe is also vice chairman of the marketing committee.

Other committee members from the Glades are C.A. Thomas of Lake Harbor and Ruth S. Wedgworth of Belle Glade, who both serve on the land use and water control committee and Billy Rogers of South Bay Growers, who is on the budget and finance committee.

Frank Tosta of Belle Glade is a member of the inspection fees committee, Robert D. Apelgren of Pahokee is on the membership committee and J.H. Wilkinson Jr., also of Pahokee, is on the standardization and palletization committee.

Serving with Wedgworth on the labor committee are S.N. Knight Sr. of Belle Glade and Pedro A. Alvarez and Billy Rogers, both of South Bay.

Several of the 11 growers, as the other 85 committed state, also serve on the FFVA's commodities committees according to FFVA President L.A. Masters, himself a grower in the Hastings area.

The Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association is a non-profit agricultural cooperative whose membership includes producers, shippers, packers and processors of Florida agricultural commodities.

The FFVA provides a medium for unity of effort in negotiations with public and private agencies.

Adult school sets yoga class

Yoga will be one of the more unusual courses being offered during the winter term at Glades Central Adult and Community School when classes begin Jan. 13.

Yoga, according to a school spokesman, is a form of exercise right for everyone. It can help a person become calm energetic and look years younger and has been practiced in the past by people like Greta Garbo, Olivia de Havilland and Jennifer Jones.

Yoga isn't a religion but a means of exercising the body in a non-athletic manner.

The organizational meeting for the class will begin at 7 p.m., Jan. 13 at the Glades Central Annex Cafeteria. There will be a maximum of 30 students allowed in the course and a small fee will be charged.

GLADES CHURCH NEWS

THE HERALD WELCOMES NEWS ITEMS FROM YOUR CHURCH EACH WEEK.
CALL 596-2056 NOT LATER THAN TUESDAY NOON FOR PUBLICATION THURSDAY.

The Parson Pontificates

When someone announced, "Christmas is for children," I wanted to retort, "It is not! Love is for everyone!" But I'm not good at winning arguments, and it all depends on how you look at it. Anyway, what is your conception of Christmas? It is tinsel and toys, little and elf and reindeer with nose noses, and little old bearded men with jolly-like tunics and a three word vocabulary (ho, ho, ho)! Then, let's leave it to the kiddies and he does with it! But what are we to do with the Christ child, who, incidentally, grew to be a man, was crucified and rose from the dead? What shall we do with the best loved verse in all the Bible, which says, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life?" The "world" and "whosoever" include most of us, don't they? Christmas is for everybody.

Manor named head of college group

Dr. Harold C. Manor, president of Palm Beach Junior College, has been named president of the Southern Association of Community Junior Colleges.

Dr. Manor served last year, as vice president of the SACJC, and assumed the office of president at the annual convention in Houston, Tex. (Dec. 10).

The SACJC is "closely affiliated with the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the South's regional accrediting agency for elementary schools, secondary schools, colleges and universities, but is not an accrediting agency."

The annual convention of the SACJC is held at the same location as that of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, and many of its officers, like Dr. Manor, have served in official capacities with both organizations. The SACJC has a membership of nearly 300 community and junior colleges in eleven southern states.

"I am honored to have been chosen for this important position by my colleagues," Dr. Manor said.

"I have been active in the association for many years, and feel it is a most worthwhile organization."

"I am looking forward to developing a good program for the next annual convention in Atlanta."

D-H Hall takes part

Marine Lance Corporal Dennis H. Hall, son of Mrs. Marion L. Hall of 549-1/2 S.E. Ave. E in Belle Glade, recently participated in a command post exercise at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

He took part in amphibious training exercises and related tactical maneuvers designed to maintain the operational readiness of Fleet Marine Force units.

Hall serves with the 2nd Marine Division at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

A former student of Olsen Junior High School in Dania, he joined the Marine Corps in September 1972.

The United Women's Club sponsored their annual Christmas program for patients at Peavy's and Thompson's Nursing Homes, both of Belle Glade, Saturday afternoon.

The program was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Peavy of 1841 S.W. Ave. D and girls were given to the 12 patients of Peavy's and the six patients of Thompson's.

Refreshments were served along with a fruit package given to each patient after the program.

Music was sponsored by members of the club.

It was another battle of the Glades last Thursday when the Pahokee and Glades Central girls' slow pitch softball teams clashed together for the second time (their first game had to be postponed after four innings because of rain).

The players and coaches on both sides were really excited about this match, and I guess the fans were too—the bleachers were crowded with spectators.

So crowded in fact that the back part of the top seats broke off—presumably because of too much weight put on it. It's really funny—when you have your back to the crowd while trying to take pictures of a game and then all of a sudden you hear this loud, ear-splitting cr-crack behind you. All sorts of things run through your mind.

Apparently no one was hurt—or else none of the other people felt any sentiment towards them because all you could see and hear was people laughing.

Back to the game. This was the third game I had covered for Glades Central's softball team, the first being the loss to Atlantic, and it's remarkable how much the players have improved as a team.

I mean, when they played Pahokee, they were playing the Suncoast West Conference's leading team and they hung in there for eight innings to finally overcome the Blue Devils, six to three.

If that had been the same team who was playing Atlantic, Pahokee would have whipped them but good. There's no doubt about it, the Glades has two of the finest softball teams in the conference in Pahokee and Belle Glade.

Speaking of softball, I went over to the coast recently and tried my hand at those automatic pitching machines (with the baseballs).

Boy, I never realized how different it was between hitting softballs and baseballs, but I found out really fast. Thought I'd try the "fast pitch" machine first and after a number of tries finally succeeded in nicking one of the pitches.

Didn't take too long for me to try the slow-pitch machine, and it was a lot more my style. It was a lot faster than a softball pitch, but not too fast where I couldn't hit it.

After I had built up my confidence with the slow-pitch machine, I decided to try the medium-pitch one. That was another quarter wasted. The lighting in that area was so dim you couldn't see the ball coming towards you.

I thought maybe—just maybe—I could have a little bit more success with the fast pitch again. Another quarter wasted. Guess I'll have to go a little more often and practice at it—then I'll try for the major leagues. (Just a little humor there).

Glades Central fans really have a lot to be proud about after this past weekend.

Would you believe two—not one, but two—players for the Raiders walked off with three awards each in two different tournaments?

Glades Central must just be the birthplace of upcoming athletes. Imagine one day in the future seeing some guy play football, basketball or wrestle and being able to say, "I knew him when..."

Mike Shoemaker walked off with three awards Saturday night in a basketball tournament when he was named Most Valuable Player for Glades Central, the Best Offensive Player of the Tournament and the Best Defensive Player of the Tournament.

Clark Lloyd, one of Glades Central's outstanding wrestlers, also walked off with high honors this weekend at Jupiter's annual Christmas Invitational Tournament when he received awards for the Most Outstanding Wrestler in the Tournament, the Champion of the Unlimited Division, and an award for the Fastest Pin (14 seconds). And to show his fastest pin wasn't a fluke, he had another pin in 26 seconds.

Girls whip Pahokee

Clara Brown slammed a triple in the eighth inning to give the Glades Central girls' slow-pitch softball team the go-ahead in their game against the Pahokee Blue Devils six to three last Thursday at the Pahokee softball park.

It was a nip and tuck game all the way as Pahokee took the lead in the second inning when they scored two runs to Glades Central's zero.

The Raiders evened the score in the top of the third inning as Pat Anderson and Sandra Bolden rounded the bases.

The score remained the same as the two teams played excellently in the field to disallow any threats, then the Blue Devils took the lead again as Mary Small tripled and then scored when the next batter knocked a clean single.

It looked as if it was all over for the Glades Central girls but they came up fighting and Laverne McRae crossed home plate to even the score.

The teams then went into an inning of overtime and the Raiders' powerhouse hitters came to bat and Marietha Pavy, Elizabeth Crawford, and Clara Brown rounded the bases. The players then fielded three outs on Pahokee, leaving a player stranded on first base.

Glades wins two Triple trophy winner Mike Shoemaker led the Glades Central Roundball Raiders to a pair of victories and twin firsts over the weekend.

The victories were over Jupiter and Suncoast High Schools. The firsts were the first-ever Glades Central Christmas Tournament and the first-ever Christmas tournament ever won by a team of Raiders.

A rarity was also recorded by the 6'6" Shoemaker, who racked up 19 points in the 85-56 win over Jupiter and 24 points in the 87-71 drubbing of Suncoast.

Shoemaker was chosen by the coaches of the other three teams in the tournament, which also included Pahokee, as Glades Central's Most Valuable Player, the tournament's best offensive player, and the tournament's best defensive player, taking home the most possible individual trophies.

A special trophy, sponsored by the Herald, will be awarded later to Hayward Bryant as the Unsung Hero for the point man's ball control and his large number of assistants.

The Christmas tournament here might have been a warmup for another tournament the Raiders will be attending this week in Fort Myers.

The tournament is an annual event sponsored by the Fort Myers News Press and Glades Central Athletic Director Graham Ford, said 14 teams are involved.

The Raiders' first game in the tournament will be Thursday night against Fort

Lloyd is top wrestler

Big 200-pound Clark Lloyd picked off three trophies for his wrestling skill, over the weekend at the annual two-day Christmas Invitational Wrestling Tournament held at Jupiter High School.

Lloyd received trophies for being the most outstanding wrestler in the tournament, the championship for unlimited weight division, which is for anyone weighing more than 195 pounds, and the fastest pin, made against Quahman of Boca Raton in 14 seconds.

Dan Smith picked up another trophy for the Raider matmen when he won first place in the 147-pound category and William Clark came in second in the tournament in the 140-pound division, advancing all the way to the finals before being eliminated.

Even if Lloyd hadn't pinned Quahman in 14 seconds, he would have still won the fastest-pin trophy with a 26-second pin. He made still another pin in 127".

A total of 12 teams were participating in the tournament, which included every Suncoast East and West school in Palm Beach County except North Shore.

Jupiter, Boca Raton and Forest Hill were the first, second and third place team trophies.

White's host Christmas dinner

The Glades Auxiliary of the Children's Home Society enjoyed its annual Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Carlton White.

Following the buffet dinner, the guests made a game of opening the Christmas gifts, which were gags in themselves.

The first person started it off by opening a gift at random. The game started with the second person.

If the second person wished, he or she could open another present opt to take the present already unwrapped by the first person. As each new person's turn came up, gifts exchanged, hands again and again with mounting hilarity. Attending the evening's events were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fleish, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Oren, Mr. and Mrs. John Pitta, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bair, Mrs. Marie Causey, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bair, Mr. and Mrs. John Hundley, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Goggans and Mr. and Mrs. B. Carlton White.

Pahokee man ends training

Navy Fireman Recruit Curtis E. Padden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlio B. Padden of 2459 Bacon Point Road, Pahokee, Fla., graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla. He is scheduled to report to Interior Communications Electrician "A" School, San Diego.

The training included instruction in seamanship, military regulations, fire fighting, close order drill, first aid and navy history.

MRS. PAUL ROGERS WITH POSTER CHILD...she will help Mother's March effort in county

Mother's march starts January

This year's March of Dimes volunteers from the Glades area will be working along with Mrs. Paul G. Rogers, Palm Beach County, Mothers' March Chairman and Little Marlene Mahanes, Palm Beach County's poster child for 1975.

The Mothers' March, an integral part of the March of Dimes campaign, began 25 years ago. The childhood enemy then was polio, and it was conquered with the support of the annual outpouring of volunteers who marched in good weather and bad to protect children from disease.

This year's volunteers are combating birth defects, our most acute child health problem.

Among those contributing much time and effort in this neighbor-to-neighbor drive are Mrs. Ramon Echols, Belle Glade Chairman, Mrs. Robert Welty, Pahokee Board Chairman, Mrs. Michael Zumpf, Belle Glade Mothers' March Chairman, and Mrs. Bonnie Bruce, well, Pahokee Mothers' March Chairman.

A special thanks goes to these chairmen for support of the Mothers' March and research that everyone hopes will unlock the mysteries of physical and mental damage at birth.

Myers Riverdale. If they get by Riverdale, the Raiders will play again Friday night against the winner of the North Fort Myers-Naples game.

Coch McDonald accepted the late invitation when Clewiston High School, which was scheduled to play in the tournament, had to back out. Front, said the News Press, guaranteed each school participating a minimum of $100.

In the Christmas tournament here, the first game began Friday night and wound up with Suncoast beating Pahokee, 52-54.

After a 21-21 first half, the Chargers built up a 10-point third quarter lead and appeared headed for an easy victory.

Midway through the final period, Pahokee cut the margin to five.

The Blue Devils' press was forcing turnovers and cut the lead to one with 12 seconds left. They regained possession again with one second left but time ran out on the tightest game of the tournament, with the Chargers hanging on to their one point margin.

Sterling Russell led Suncoast with 18 points while Ricky Jackson and Larry Diamond led Pahokee with 10 each.

In Friday's second game, Glades Central whipped Jupiter the second time this season, 55-56, to advance to the finals Saturday night against Suncoast and throw Pahokee against the Warriors.

Glades Central completely dominated the Friday game, overpowering Jupiter with the scoring of Mike Shoemaker, Russell Collier and William Likely.

The Raiders out-rebounded Jupiter on the boards, 28 to 19. Mike Shoemaker led the Raiders with 19 points, Russell Collier with 18 and William Likely with 12 while Hayward Bryant and David Jones had 10 each.

On the tournament's second night, Pahokee overcame a first quarter deficit of 18-13 to go into the lead at the half, 28-21.

The Blue Devils pressed Jupiter the last quarter and forced the Warriors to give too many turnovers as Pahokee went ahead to win, 57-53.

Valton Banks and Larry Diamond led Pahokee in scoring with 12 points each and Ronnie Rainey followed a close second with 11.

Gunow Kurt and Joe Pressley led Jupiter with 13 points each followed by Rick Anderson with 12.

In the tournament's championship game, Glades Central roared to an early lead, overpowering the Suncoast Chargers, 44-27 by the half, and coasted to an easy 57-22 victory.

LP Gas saves you money

LP Gas will cook almost 2 meals with the same amount of original energy it takes to cook 1 meal electrically.

LP Gas will dry about three and one-half loads of clothes with the same amount of original energy it takes to dry 1 load electrically.

LP Gas will heat almost two and one-half gallons of water with the same amount of original energy it takes to heat 1 gallon electrically.

LP Gas comes to you straight-no inefficient conversion to another type of fuel. It's pure energy, in its cleanest, most efficient form. With gas 93 percent of the original energy comes into your home, ready for direct use in your gas appliances. So you can see, very little is used in delivery to you. On the other hand, around here, most electric power is generated from burning coal, and some oil and natural gas. And only about 28 percent of the original energy is delivered to you as electricity. Obviously, most of the original energy is lost when converted into electrical power. See chart below.

Baby shower

Con una muy animada reunión se celebró el pasado jueves a las 12 el Baby shower a Merida Blanchard. Un grupo amplio de sus amistades se reunieron junto con Merida y su esposo para celebrar la próxima llegada del cuarto hijo de Merida y Augusto. El hijo social de la Iglesia Metodista, en el cual se celebró el shower, estuvo adornado propio para la ocasión.

y con mucho gusto por las organizadoras del mismo, señoras Luisita Blanchard, Cecilia Irujo, Teresita Torres, Graciela Echevarría y Lucy García.

Después de esta noche de tanta alegría en compartir con Merida este momento de la familia, solo nos queda esperar el arribo del bebé en breve. Felicidades Merida y sabemos que todo será de bendición y alegría cuando llegue este pequeño.

Navidad

Que bella es la fiesta de las navidades. La fiesta del niño nacido en Belén. Se agrupan los hombres de todas edades y se llena el mundo de un dulce tropel.

De nuevo resurgien humildes pastores; Y vuelven los magos en ruta tenaz, Y cuentan que vieron celestes fulgores Que hablan al hombre de nuevas de paz.

Se postran y adoran al recién nacido, Le ofrecen sus dones con gran devoción Y reconociendo que es el prometido, Le entregan la ofrenda de su corazón.

Doquiera se habla de aquel gran evento Y el mundo se llena de gozo y de luz; Como si cantaran de puro contento Los campos, las flores y el sol, por Jesús.

Se ve por doquiera el árbol prendido Cargado de luces de bello esplendor, Refleja esperanzas al mundo perdido Y cuenta la historia del buen Redentor.

Se oyen los cantos de las navidades, Los angelitos cantan y el hombre también; El mundo se llena de música suave, Alaban al niño nacido en Belén.

En la fiesta tan solo que aquel que se goza En la fiesta bella de la cristianidad, Percibe la causa, sublime, gloriosa De la fiesta alegre de la navidad.

Que nazca en las almas, no ya en el pesebre, Aquel que del hombre es la redención Y suenen continuas campanas alegres Por ser navidades en el corazón!

El regalo de mas precio

Las Navidades nos hablan de luces, alegrías y regalos. Regalamos, porque queremos que otros vean que de veras los apreciamos y queremos. El regalo es por lo regular la muestra exterior y tangible de nuestros sentimientos.

También Jesús fue un regalo para la humanidad. La muestra viva del Amor de Dios para nosotros. Dios hecho hombre para mostrarnos el camino a la paz, y a la felicidad. El canto de los angelitos al anunciar el nacimiento del Cristo en Belén a los pastores, es el don, la dádiva para la humanidad. Era y, aun, es Jesús, el único que puede traer paz y buena voluntad a todos los hombres. La forma de agradecer a Dios este regalo, este don en estas Navidades, es darnos a este Jesús, para que Él también nos haga a nosotros hombres y mujeres de buena voluntad, y a la vez agradables y aceptables delante de Dios.

Jesús ha nacido

Se oyen campanas tanir por doquiera, Llenando los aires de un santo loor. Anuncian al mundo con voz placentera Que ha en Belén nacido Jesús el Señor.

Así recordamos la fugida estrella Que a Magos de Oriente les dió señal, Guiando sus pasos rehuyente y bella Hasta hallar al niño, al Rey eterno.

También los pastores que angelitos vieron, Y gloria celeste bandando su faz, En voces sublimes el cántico oyeron: "¡Hosanna en los cielos y en la tierra paz!"

De gran gozo nuevas, un angel traía, Que el Cristo ha nacido allá en Betleem; "¡Sera para todos!" su voz repetía. "¡Los hombres, los pueblos, y el mundo también!"

Por eso se alegran el niño y el hombre; La tierra y el cielo le rinden loor, Se unen a coro y alaban el nombre Del niño divino, Jesús el Señor.

It's father-son time!!

"His qualifications are superb," Dreeson told the commissioners. He said he had recently had and had seen the plans he submitted.
"They were immaculate," he said. "You could eat off the floor. Mr. Harrelle runs a very clean operation." Dreeson said Harrelle holds a Class B plant operator's license, the second highest license it is possible to own.
"We have a quorum," Walker said when he made the motion, "and I believe we ought to go ahead with this."
"It's my idea that we need someone like Mr. Harrelle," Tanner agreed. "Somebody like him certainly wouldn't be a stumbling block."
Dreeson said he was convinced Harrelle, in spite of his large salary, would save the city thousands of dollars.
If the commissioners were divided over Harrelle, however, they were united in directing to advertise Dreeson's resignation. Tanner, Walker and Mrs. Cox accepted the resignation "reluctantly" and "regretfully."

Dreeson explained in his resignation his wife, Mary, has been under a doctor's care for bronchial asthma and the doctor told him she should be living in a dry climate, specifically recommending Scottsdale, Ariz.
"And that's the hardest I've had to write in a long time," he said when City Clerk Virginia Walker read his resignation.
"I hate to see you go," Commissioner Walker said. "I guess this is the first time we've ever had the police department fully organized and I was hoping you could do the same thing in the city manager's position."
He went on to say he thought Dreeson was heading in the right direction in the six weeks he occupied the city manager's position.
Tanner agreed and said he hoped Dreeson's accomplishments would show his successors what can be done.
Dreeson came to South Bay Sept. 1, 1973 as the city's police chief after the force had been gutted by the dismissal of four of the city's six officers, including then-chief Charles B. Clark.
Dreeson said Friday night there is no one in the department at this time who is qualified to take over the chief's position.
He said, however, the most qualified person, once he satisfies a technical state requirement, in January, would probably be his administrative assistant, Billy Fields.
Fields was dismissed last year at the same time as Chief Clark but his resignation was asked for by then-police commissioner Vernita Cox on grounds he hadn't met state requirements while the other three officers were fired for malfeasance in office.
Dreeson said his resignation would become effective Dec. 31 but he would stay as long as possible to help the city find a replacement or replacements.
He stressed, however, he feels the two positions he occupies should be held by two different persons. He strongly recommended his father as the new city manager.
City Clerk Virginia Walker

The Belle Glade Herald, December 26, 1974, 7A

No hay lugar para cristo

La fiesta de todos...Navidad...llego, Y todos se aprestan para celebrar La fiesta del niño que en Belén nació... Pero para el niño no hay un lugar!

Se adorna la casa, el bello arbolito, Derroche de luces, regalos a mil; Todos muy alegres, mas, donde está el Cristo? Nadad que no tendré lugar sereno.

Acaso un pesebre con muneos dentro Inerte materia, la vil falsedad, Y a eso le llaman el gran nacimiento A eso reducen la gran Navidad.

Se sirve la mesa, el todo es hartarse, Derroche de vinos, cerveza, licor, Se come, se bebe hasta emborracharse... Están celebrando tu fiesta, Señor?

Después es el baile, las bajas pasiones Que al fin se alimentan de carnalidad Música profana, que ofenden sus oídos Al Santo que es dueño de la Navidad.

Así se celebra la fiesta divina. Entre los que dicen que cristianos son, Mas son los que nunca ante Él se inclinan, Ni doblan rodillas en adoración.

No han comprendido del cielo el mensaje: Que vino a la tierra a ser Salvador; No vino a vestirse de fiesta el ropaje, No han comprendido de Dios el amor!

Por eso parecen esclavos del vicio, Pues solo practican mundanidad, No hay en sus vidas lugar para Cristo, Ni aun en la fiesta de la Navidad.

Santa holds sneak preview

Boy, did the kids at Gove Elementary turn out last week when they heard a jolly old man from some place up north was coming to the school for a sneak preview of his annual trip around the world. The word we have, though, was that Santa was making a special trip to Gove and the other schools in the area to see children enrolled in the Glades Migrant Child Education program. The kids had a pinata to pull apart too, courtesy of Mrs. Adela Iglesias.

Tin can phone service set

Glades residents who want to find out when the next pickup of aluminum cans will be made by Reynolds Metals Co.

can let their fingers do the walking from now on. Reynolds, which makes two pickups a month in Belle Glade, recently installed a statewide toll free information service on how to recycle household aluminum scrap and when and where the next pickups will be made.

By dialing 1-800-282-7797 and weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. from anywhere in Florida a person can determine the nearest time and place he can convert empty beer cans and other aluminum scrap into 15 cents a pound.

With the growing interest in recycling we are constantly adding new locations and revising our mobile unit schedule to better serve the public," Paul S. Hayden, Reynolds' regional recycling manager said.

Reynolds is currently paying Floridians some $225,000 for the 1.5 million pounds of scrap aluminum being picked up at 62 locations throughout the state each month.

Belle Glade contributed a total of 14,640 pounds of aluminum to the recycling program during November, the equivalent of 388,720 beverage cans, to help keep Florida number one in the nation in the recycling of aluminum.

Recycling centers are located in Tampa, Miami, Jacksonville and Pensacola. Mobile recycling units work out of each center, spreading the network state-wide.

OUR UNPROTECTED TENANTS

American families who rent are the least protected by insurance against fire, theft and personal liability lawsuits. And this segment is growing larger every year. Experts predict a fifty-fifty split between houses and apartment building starts over the next several years.

However, most of these new apartment dwellers are not taking advantage of TENANTS INSURANCE, a package plan similar to the widely accepted homeowners policy.

The rise in house and apartment burglaries is convincing some renters of the need for this coverage, especially those who have been victimized. And renters who have seen their personal belongings destroyed by fire or have been stung by a personal liability lawsuit have become believers too.

Basically, tenants insurance provides the same coverage as the homeowners broad form policy except that the building itself is not insured.

Benedict Arnold to lead newly formed militia?

By Jerome Turk and Edward Walsh

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 26, 1974—Warmed to slaying by the prospect of armed clash against the mother country, 45 of this bustling Connecticut town's patriots today organized a militia company. The odds-on favorite to become their captain is a wealthy druggist and one-time deserter.

We wanted to report on the kind of men Americans are choosing as their military leaders. So we waited outside the surrounding picket fence for 33-year-old Benedict Arnold to leave his two-story white clapboard mansion on Water Street early today.

When the door opened, a fastidiously dressed, muscular man, about five-foot seven in height, hurried out. He brushed past us and our questions before we could get them out.

"This is like following in the wake of a shark," puffed Turk as we gave chase. Knots of hard-ribbed dock workers opened before Arnold. Those workers know that underneath all that fine haberdashery, he's quick-tempered and tough as a wharfside piling.

New Haven circulates tales about the duels he has won with both sword and pistol. Eight years ago, city fathers fined him 50 shillings for laying 40 lashes across the back of a seaman. The man had foolishly threatened to inform customs authorities of Arnold's smuggling activities. And everyone here knows how, with one snarling-aimed shot, he drove off the Frenchman courting his tall, blonde sister Hannah.

Arnold came to New Haven from nearby

January is month for farm census

The 1974 Census of Agricultural Statistics project of the past five years, will begin in January. It will be conducted by the Bureau of the Census, part of the Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

From Alaska to Florida, from Maine to Hawaii, farmers and ranchers will receive census forms in the mail around the first of the new year. The report forms are to be filled out and mailed back promptly.

Farmers themselves have participated in deciding what information is collected in the census. Representatives of farm organizations such as the Farm Bureau, The Grange, Farmers Union, National Farmers Organization, and Farmers Cooperatives serve on the Advisory Committee that recommends to the Bureau the questions that should be included in the census.

Three kinds of information are requested about operations during 1974: first, a count of farm resources, number of farms, area of farm land, acre of cropland and pasture, number of each kind of livestock and poultry, number of persons working on farms; number of various kinds of farm equipment; second, a record of farm products produced and sold during 1974; and third, selected farming activities during 1974 such as number of days of off-farm work by the farmer, amount spent for labor, for custom work, for fuel, for gasoline and oil.

Norwich, where he had apprenticed in the apothecary trade with his mother's cousins, Daniel and Joshua Lathrop. Taking the Latin motto SIBI TOTIQUE ("for himself and for all"), the enterprising young druggist soon set up his own shop. Then he expanded. Now he is a successful merchant, trader and owner of sailing vessels.

But a deserter? "Absolutely," insisted Turk, who loudly vowed he would dog Arnold all over town until the matter was cleared up. When our quarry suddenly wheeled with clenched fists, my compatriot stood unflinchingly, eyeball-to-eyeball with him.

Brandishing a tattered newspaper, Turk demanded, "Isn't it true that you were reported to be a deserter from the New York Militia Company of Captain James Holmes during the French and Indian War? Weren't you described in the New York Gazette of May 21, 1759 as '18 years old, dark complexioned, light eyes and dark hair'?" And wasn't 40 shillings offered for your arrests?"

Instantly, Arnold snatched the paper and tore it to pieces. "There was no glory in clearing forests and roads," he snapped. "And the records show that I eventually rejoined the campaign against the French."

"The paper," I said to Turk as Arnold stalked angrily away from us. "Let's retrieve the pieces."

"No need," my colleague smiled. "An old soldier in the last war taught me it isn't what you have that counts; it's what others THINK you have. That's a paper I bought in Boston two weeks ago."

Obviously, the matter was cleared up to Turk's satisfaction. Benedict Arnold had a second chance.

"He'll be an outstanding officer," commented Turk, who prides himself on his insight into a man's character. "And you know what? I'll wager my new waistcoat Benedict Arnold will also be the most faithful patriot in American military service!"

NEW YEARS RESOLUTIONS

1. TRUST IN GOD

For the majority of our citizens, this resolution is so much repeated that it is never even written down. Realize, thank God, that of resolutions for the new year here to do with earthly and material things as the President's resolution would begin on that theme. For those of us who do not have a personal God, our list of resolutions would, of course, omit any reference to God.

2. SUPPORT AMERICA

This should be the resolution that looks off the down-south and national eye. This of every citizen's list, for without this backbone of support for the United States, no part of the other resolutions would be meaningful. So, we should all vote that throughout the coming year and the years that follow, we will be more concerned with ways to support our nation than with getting our nation to support us.

Tis the season to be jolly

Everybody got into the act at Belle Glade's third annual Christmas parade two weekends ago. What fire department is complete without a Dalmatian which Bobby Carter shows off? And speaking of showing off—catch the dude in the background doing a super wheely on his bike. And there were smaller bikes as well, decorated to see if they could win a cash award. And even the U.S. Army got into the Christmas spirit with some pretty girls and an equally lovely fleet.

A Florida National Savings Account

Unlike so many investments that a year from now may not look as good as they do today...a Florida National savings account looks better everyday. And it's an investment that anyone can afford to make, one that prepares you for emergencies or just for getting the things you want as they come along.

So make a good investment. Start putting a little of each paycheck away in a Florida National savings account. It pays good interest, it can be drawn from at any time, and...the older it gets, the better it looks.

Q. My limes are developing properly, but the end of them appears to become water soaked and rot at maturity. What is wrong?

A. This problem is called Styler End Rot. Lemons, Limes, and Calamondins develop a breakdown of the rind at the blossom or styler end of the fruit during the summer and beginning of fall. The blossom end of the fruit appears to have a water-soaked or rotten appearance. This is caused by a breakdown of the rind which will remain firm but give a mushy appearance. Finally, the flesh will collapse beneath the affected rind and the core becomes water-soaked. Affected fruits are then invaded by various decay organisms. In the early stages of the breakdown, this disease appears to be of physiological origin as no micro-organisms can be recovered from the affected tissues. Styler End Rot is more prevalent where there is excessive moisture or when the fruit has a thin rind. It is seldom seen during the cooler weather. Using a summer rain or potash such as 4-8-8 will usually reduce the amount of breakdown. If a lawn sprayer is near the tree, it should have a shield to reduce the amount of water reaching the tree.

Q. My Frangipani tree is losing its leaves. It seems to have a sort of orange-rust-like fungus on the underside of the leaves. What can I do to prevent this?

A. These small orange to brick-red spots appearing mostly on the underside of the leaves are rust. Zinc will give some control, also a sulphur spray or dust will be effective. Leaf fall on the Frangipani at this time of year is natural. The best answer would seem to be to just remove the fallen leaves and spray preventatively earlier in the season next year.

Christmas—have we forgotten what it is all about? Pause and reflect—think—about

Christmas Blessings

"And his name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, The only God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace." Let us rejoice!

the Child who was born over 2,000 years ago to forgive us for our sins. That is what Christmas is all about.

The Belle Glade Herald

Have we lost sight of it?

The real meaning of Christmas

"You can't see the woods for the trees" . . . so goes an old saying.

To paraphrase this, "you can't experience Christmas because of the untidy litter that covers and surrounds it."

How easily one can become enguiled in the wrapping, in the outward and visible display of the Season . . . and lose sight of the true meaning.

After all, the secular

Christmas is based on worthwhile things . . . communicating with family and friends in various, time consuming ways.

There are cards to be addressed and mailed . . . or taken to a special mailbox for distribution. There is an air of hospitality you should observe. (Only a Scrooge would frown on this!) There are fixings-up of the house, choosing decorations, foods to prepare . . . gifts to make or buy. Even if the purchase costs little, there is the special time for the special gifts.

And who would begrudge the spending of time on these happy duties? In fact, most of us enjoy the doing, even though we get footsore and weary, and perhaps foolishly overspend.

Just so we do not lose the whole point of Christmas, just so the celebration is not squandered and becomes dull, or part of a too-often-repeated pattern.

Let us try to salvage the true delights of Christmas, as a child would enjoy it. Not in childishness, but in childlike wonder, a renaissance of the joyous spirit that we sometimes permit to become jaded.

The story behind most famous poem

His eyes, how they twinkled! His dimples, how merry! His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry! His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow, and the beard of his chin was as white as the snow. . . .

From a famous poem, probably one of the most cherished and well remembered in all of the English language.

Written almost 150 years ago by Clement Clark Moore, this poem helped create one of the great legendary figures of all time, the "plump and jolly old elf," Santa Claus (who up to that time was depicted as rather a gaunt and somber St. Nicholas whose living prototype had been an obscure ecclesiastic of the Fourth Century).

There is no substantiated version of how Dr. Moore got his idea for this image, so different from most of those prevailing.

The actual image of Santa Claus, or St. Nicholas as Moore called him in the first version, may have come from the moon-silhouetted face of his handyman. Legend holds that it was on a sleigh ride over the now packed New York streets of 1822 as he and his handyman, Peter, went from the estate to Greenwich Village to deliver Christmas presents.

The famous lines were set down by Moore at a writing desk in his home located on a 30-acre tract in a New York City area still known as Chelsea, down on the lower West Side where the wholesale lower market now stands.

At the time, Moore was a professor of Oriental languages in the General Theological Seminary in New York.

According to tradition, Moore read the poem to his children that Christmas Eve.

famous Austrian boys' choir evokes Christmas memories

Many Americans have listened with pleasure to the Vienna Boys' Choir, which makes appearances as a cherished and regular part of the Christmas season. But few realize that this choir has a history steeped in tradition . . . in fact, it dates back to over four and a half centuries to Columbus' time.

In 1498 Emperor Maximilian I of the Hapsburgs dynasty ordered a court aide to arrange for a singing group to perform in the Court Chapel in Vienna. The boys were carefully selected and made wards of the state which assumed responsibility for their education as well as room and board.

As boys, several famous musicians were members of the Choir . . . among them, Josef Haydn, Franz Schubert, Beethoven, Mozart, Liszt and Bruckner.

Today the Choir includes four separate singing groups which rotate on the concert circuit, one always remaining at home to sing at the Court Chapel where service is performed today as it was in the Emperor Maximilian's time. The different choirs travel all over the world; naturally, boys are anxious to join, but less than ten percent of those who apply can meet the Choir's rigid standards. Age groups are in the 7-18 range, involving the usual boys' high jinks, but when they sing, they are said to rival the angels. This is due to the uncompromising discipline of their musicianship, and rules of deportment. Within the sphere of their performances they are true professionals with an artistry which the whole world enjoys.

Yule Cheer

Heap on more wood! — the wind is chill;
But let it whistle as it will,

We'll keep our Christmas merry still.
— Sir Walter Scott (1771-1832)

'Kohoutek' comet put on show at Christmas of 1973

During early to mid-January there was much excitement and anticipation over the expected appearance of the comet Kohoutek.

It was dubbed "the Christmas Comet" and was expected to be most visible to the naked eye on January 14, at twilight.

Alas! The spectacular comet faded. It went into a decline, as far as earthlings are concerned. True, many thousands viewed its pulsing splendor through powerful lenses at observatories, but the common man on his own back porch was acutely disappointed that he couldn't look over to the southwest skies and see this phenomenon.

The comment occasioned by the heralded appearance of the comet caused many people to wonder if the star of Bethlehem was also a comet.

The discoverer of the comet is Lubos Kohoutek of the Hamburg Observatory who observed it when it was near the orbit of Jupiter, 380 million miles from earth.

As we go to press, the most authoritative sources say that Kohoutek has lost its tail, too.

On the evening of January 14, looking through one of the world's most sophisticated telescopes, the comet was a great round shimmering glob of glow, surrounded, as it were, by myriads of tiny twinkling diamonds.

Spectacular, certainly, even if it did not "live up to its notices".

PRESCIENT POET?

The last great Age, foretold by sacred Rimes,
Renews its finish'd course: Saturnian times
Roll round again; and mighty years, begun
From their first Orb, in radiant Circles run.
The base degenerate from Offspring ends;
A golden Progeny from Heaven descends.
O chaste Lucina! speed the Mother's pains,
And haste the glorious birth thy own Apollo reigns!

The Son shall lead the life of Gods, and be
By Gods and Heroes seen, and Gods and Heroes see.
The jarring Nations he in peace shall bind,
And with paternal Virtues rule Mankind.
Unblended Earth shall wreathing Ivy bring
And fragrant Herbs (the promises of Spring)
As her first offerings to her infant King.

Lines written by Virgil
several decades before the Birth of Christ.
Eclogue 4, translated by Dryden.

Frankincense once as valuable as diamonds

Development of a major commerce in frankincense and myrrh turned South Arabia, known as Arabia Felix, into a bustling trade center about 1200 B.C.

Camel Caravans
Wrapped in sheepskins or goatskins, the gum resins were carried in 20 to 40 pound bundles on camel caravans to factories in Egypt and other markets in the north. The Jews used frankincense to perfume their temples.

Pliny wrote that frankincense was so valuable that workmen at the factory in Alexandria, where it was processed, were forced to strip for inspection at the end of each day's work — just as workers in today's South African diamond mines.

The valuable resins also were taken north by the sea. So wargold, from the mines of the Queen of Sheba, whose monarchy was based at Marib, site of current archaeological diggings to the east of here.

Myrrh was regarded highly by the ancients as an unguent and a perfume. It was used for incense in temples and for fumigation.

Used as Medicine

Frankincense was used as an incense and particularly on funeral pyres. It also was considered valuable as a medicine.

No longer used in medicine, frankincense remains valued today as a base for perfumes.

Christmas Music

I do not know a grander effect of music on the moral feelings than to hear the full choir and the pealing organ performing a Christmas anthem in a cathedral, and filling every part of the vast pile with triumphant harmony.

Be careful of guarantees

A guarantee isn't much of a guarantee unless it tells you exactly what is being guaranteed. And, equally important, is the man or company behind the guarantee, reports Mrs. Arden C. Jones, Extension Home Economics Agent.

Comparing guarantees should be an important part of your shopping. Don't wait until the product fails or needs repair to find out how good the guarantee is. The time to become familiar with the terms of a guarantee is before you buy the item.

Be particularly wary of so-called unconditional warranties. There are always limitations or conditions. Get all promises in writing. A salesman who is unwilling to put his promises in writing is not the man to deal with.

Before you buy any product or service that is covered by a warranty, consider these key points: (1) What is covered? Is the entire product or only certain parts? Is labor included? (2) Who do you call when you need repairs that are covered by the warranty—the manufacturer, the dealer or service agency? (3) Must repairs be done by a "factory" or "authorized dealer"? If so, is such a dealer located within a convenient distance of your home? (4) How long does the warranty last? Does it last longer on certain parts than on the entire product? (5) If pro-rata reimbursement is provided, what is the basis for its length of ownership: usage or original cost? (6) If the warranty provides reimbursement, is it in cash or credit towards a replacement? (7) Will a substitute product be provided while yours is being repaired?

Before you use any product read the owner's manual or instruction sheet. Follow the operating instructions and be sure that maintenance or repair is done as required by the warranty, says Mrs. Jones.

Keep your warranty and the sale receipt for future reference. Write down the date of purchase and the date of installation.

Always register your appliance when a card is provided.

Also, keep a record of service or repair work done after purchase. Remember that you best guarantee is the care you take in making your purchase.

Christmas Day In The Morning

As I sat on a sunny bank,
A sunny bank, a sunny bank,
As I sat on a sunny bank
On Christmas Day in the morning.

I saw three ships come sailing by,
Come sailing by, come sailing by,
I saw three ships come sailing by,
On Christmas Day in the morning.

And who if you think were on the ship,
Were on the ship, were on the ship,
And who if you think were on the ship
But Joseph and his Fair Lady.

O he did whistle and she did sing,
And all the bells on earth did ring
For joy our Saviour Christ was born
On Christmas Day in the morning.

Marmee, Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy personified the Spirit of Giving in "Little Women"

One of the most beloved stories in American literature is "Little Women", by Louisa May Alcott.

The Civil War-improvised March family—the four "Little Women" guided by their courageous, firm yet kindly mother, Marmee, have won generations of friends as the years go by.

No better time to meet the March ladies, than at Christmas.

"Christmas won't be Christmas without any presents," grumbled Jo, lying on the rug. (Jo, as you remember, was the "free spirit" among the girls, with an impulsive, outspoken way that sometimes concealed a warm and loving heart.)

"It's so dreadful to be poor," sighed Meg, looking down at her old dress.

"I don't think it's fair for some girls to have plenty of pretty things, and other girls nothing at all," added little Amy, with an injured sniff.

"We've got father and mother and each other," said Beth contentedly, from her corner.

The four young faces on which the firelight shone brightened at the cheerful words, but darkened again as Jo said sadly:

"We haven't got father, and shall not have him for a long time." She didn't say "perhaps never," but each silently added it, thinking of father far away, where the fighting was.

But somehow the girls rallied their spirits, and determined to make a show of being happy, even if each one had a lump in her throat, thinking of her father in combat, perhaps lying on the wet snow with only the cold muzzle of a rifle against his cheek.

They were thinking, too, of Marmee, to brave in the midst of these adversities, and who was the most selfless person anyone could know.

The girls decided to pool their meagre resources and buy their mother some presents. A dollar was all any of them had to spend; they had hoarded their pennies for months to build up a fund for something nice for Marmee. And they wanted it to be a surprise.

On Christmas morning they came downstairs to find that their mother had gone out on an errand of mercy—an occurrence all too common, in the eyes of these faithful friend and servant, Hannah, long unpaid, but ever loyal.

The girls waited for an hour, growing hungrier and hungrier as they sniffed the aroma of buckwheats coming from the kitchen.

Finally Marmee came back, but only to ask the girls to sacrifice their own wants and needs this Christmas morning, and help her carry a basket of good things to eat, along with firewood, to a cold and starving family nearby.

All the "little women" felt that this need was greater than theirs, so they gathered up the hotcakes, the freshly baked muffins and the cream, and with Jo's arms heaped with firewood, the Marches made a Christmas morning visit to their neighbors' house.

Later, their own breakfast of only cold bread and milk seemed sufficient, because their hearts were full of gratitude that, as poor as they were, they were able to help those unfortunate.

As Marmee went into the kitchen to thank Hannah, the girls decided that this was the moment to surprise their mother with the gifts.

There was a good deal of laughing and kissing and explaining, in the simple, loving fashion which makes these home festivals so pleasant at the time, so sweet to remember long afterward. . .

How Christ's birthdate was chosen

The earliest source regarding the exact date of the birth of Jesus:

The Christian era was calculated by the monk Dionysius Exiguus in the 6th century after Christ. He placed Jesus' birth on Dec. 25 in the year 753 of Rome, and decided 754 should be the first year of the Christian era. However, Biblical scholars find his calculations in error and place the birth of Jesus at 4 B.C. or earlier.

In AD 274 the emperor Aurelian chose December 25 because it is just after the winter solstice, or the shortest day of the year, and light once more starts to strengthen and gradually flood more of the world for longer periods each day.

Besides, that date already was a great holiday for the pagan Romans, and Christian leaders thought it proper to move in and take over an accepted occasion.

What's more, no one knew the actual birth date of Jesus, since neither Scripture nor any contemporary legend gave any precise information on it.

At some point before AD 336 the church at Rome accepted December 25 as the day for commemorating His birth, and so it has been ever since, although because of a difference in calendars, the Eastern church celebration and that of Western churches rarely coincide.

In ancient Persia, December 25th was celebrated as the birthdate of the sun god, Mithras, who was believed to emerge from a rock three days after the winter solstice. A star seen by shepherds and Magi foretold his birth.

St. Francis to have assembled crib scene

Much is made of the Nativity Scene in Christian homes at Christmas-time. Over the centuries worshippers have expressed their devotion by creating the figures of Joseph, the Virgin Mary, the Christ-Child in His rudely fashioned crib, and the beasts of the field which according to legend surrounded the Holy Birth inside the manger.

Great artists have carved the figures from fine woods, sculpted them of precious metal and other materials, which have become treasured works for the world to admire.

St. Francis of Assisi had much to do with our modern Christmas traditions.

For one thing he is said to have assembled, in AD 1224, the first Nativity scene, using live people, live oxen and live donkeys. Franciscan churches still continue to make of this an illuminating seasonal custom.

St. Joseph's Catholic Church at 12th and Los Angeles Sts., in Los Angeles, California has done so for many years.

St. Francis also popularized the tradition of Christmas caroling. It is said. When villagers came to see his Nativity arrangement, he led them in "joyous caroling."

Now, of course, such caroling is done by roving groups of singers from countless churches and other organizations each Christmas, but the idea is the same — to express in song one's gratitude at the joyous occasion of Christmas.

Indians had a sacred festival

In early pioneer days in America, Indian children were invited in to see the Christmas tree and were given extra food. On one occasion — in fact, probably on many more than just one — Indians were found dancing around the tree, stamping and whooping in the familiar manner of ceremonially excited braves.

One can imagine the shock and dismay on the part of some of our pioneer ancestors.

American Indians were accustomed to the idea of giving among themselves, though the habit was prompted less by ideas of doing good and sharing with the less fortunate, than the more human one of raising one's prestige. They had, also, a tree upon which they hung gifts. This was considered a sacred spring festival tree, not a Christmas tree. A tribe in North Dakota would plant, each year, a young cedar near the big medicine lodge. Children brought gifts of moccasins, pelts, shawls and so forth to hang on the branches of what was called, with the simplicity of so-called primitive peoples, Grandmother.

Tree legend

One of the many legends about the Christmas tree tells of Martin Luther wandering through the woods on Christmas Eve and marveling at the stars shining through the branches of the fir trees. Inspired by the sight, he cut a fir tree for his family, set it up, and lighted it with candles to represent the stars.

In the fall, Grandmother was uprooted and set adrift on the Missouri river for a long journey into the Great Beyond. Much in the way that Alaskans are reported to have set adrift their old folks, upon the icy water floes.

The Indians of course recognized that the white brothers' Christmas was an important occasion. It came to be called by tribes The Big Eating. By others, in districts frequented by French trappers, who kissed each other as they exchanged gifts, it was known as Kissing Day.

Santa Claus - a lovable legend, bringer of gifts

Throughout history, Santa Claus has had many names, many origins. He has as many personalities as fertile imaginations through the ages can dream up.

The symbol of Santa Claus and other magical bringers of gifts is infinitely variable. In Europe the chief gift-bringers are St. Nicholas on his saint's day, the 6th of December; his Anglo-American descendant is Santa Claus; in parts of Scandinavia dwarfs and goats take his place; there is the Christ Child of the German Xmas Eve; the white-robed girl Kolyada in pre-revolutionary Russia arrived by sleigh on Christmas Eve with attendant carolers; and the Epiphany gift-bearers associated with the Magi — such as the Befana of Italy, Babouschka of old Russia, and the Reyes Magos of Spain — all parade down through the centuries with essentially the same function — to bring gifts to good little boys and girls.

Santa Claus himself is composed of many elements; he is half Saint Nicholas and half ancient yule god. St. Nicholas, the original, was a bishop of Myra in Asia Minor in the fourth century. He is supposed to have wrought miracles; certainly he was a good man. Many stories evolve from legends concerning the Bishop. One which is not as well known is told which introduces his connection with children.

Three boys were murdered by an innkeeper, cut up, and the pieces preserved in barrels of vinegar. St. Nicholas found these truncations, fitted them together with a prayer, and brought the boys back to life. To our 20th century minds this may seem a most macabre way to begin a legend's association with children!

In Holland, St. Nicholas becomes Santa Klaas. The children put out a pair of shoes or clogs filled with hay, water and carrots for his white horse; these are placed before the fireplace, and the next morning the shoes are found filled with either sweets and little gifts — or, depending on past behavior, birch rods.

Santa's arrival by chimney in America probably has an origin of antecedent significance. Hearth-gods and gods of the Yule-log went in and out by chimney — also witches, adherents of the old and earliest religion of the horned god only much later made into a satanic Christian devil-figure. (Shades of an exorcist! These people used hallow-cinastore-dmaga and used ointments like belladonna that made them feel like they were flying.

So it seems that the jovial, genial fellow whom we know as St. Nick or Santa Claus has had his darker side, too. All very interesting, as is most history, if you dig deep enough.

A Christmas Blessing

This poem, by the famed James Whitcomb Riley (1849-1916), of Indiana, starts with the conclusion of "The Christmas Dinner of the Crickets."

"God bless us every one!" prayed Tiny Tim, Crippled and dwarfed of body, yet so tall Of soul, we tiptoe earth to look on him, High towering over all.

He loved the loveliest world, nor dreamed, indeed, That it as best could give him, the while, But pitying glances, when his only need Was but a cheery smile.

And thus he prayed, "God bless us every one!" Enfolded all the creeds within the span Of his child-heart; and so, departing none, Was nearer saint than man.

I like to fancy God, in Paradise, Lifting a finger o'er the rhythmic swing Of chiming harp and song, with eager eyes Turned earthward, listening—

The Anthem stilled—the angels leaning there Above the golden walls—the morning sun Of Christmas bursting flower-like with the prayer, "God bless us every one!"

How a pioneer family celebrated Christmas

STORY BY TAMARA INGALLS WILDER

A LOUD knock came from the door. The pioneer family was gathered around the table, eating their Christmas dinner. The mother, Eve, looked up at the door. "Who is it?" she called. "It's me," came the answer. "The neighbor's boy has brought a pair of light colored stockings for a gift. He says they are the best he's ever seen. He says they are the best he's ever seen. He says they are the best he's ever seen.

The boy, the neighbor's boy, the boy who brought the stockings, the boy who brought the stockings, the boy who brought the stockings.

On the way to the door, the boy, the boy who brought the stockings, the boy who brought the stockings, the boy who brought the stockings.

they read the story of the birth of Jesus. The story was so beautiful that they all cried. The story was so beautiful that they all cried.

read them first. The stories have an ageless, timeless appeal. They contain the essence of Christmas: selflessness, appreciation of the simple joys, and love of family.

THE Yuletide season is a time of joy and happiness. It is a time when we gather around the table and share our love and memories. It is a time when we give and receive gifts, and when we celebrate the birth of Jesus.

Nativity creche art dramatizes story

According to legend, remnants of the manger at Bethlehem were brought to Italy by early Christians. So it is not surprising that some 1300 years later, St. Francis of Assisi should have chosen to renew its spirit and meaning in the hermitage of Greccio in the Umbrian mountains.

"I desire to represent the birth of that Child in Bethlehem in such a way that with our bodily eyes we may see all that He suffered for lack of the necessities for a newborn babe, and how He lay in the manger between the ox and ass."

His friend, Giovanni Vellita, proceeded to carry out these instructions, setting up a life-size manger with straw and a live ox and ass. Members of the community posed as Mary, Joseph and the shepherds and a wax figure of the Christ Child was placed in the manger. A great throng assembled to worship at the site on Christmas Eve 1223. Many songs and hymns were sung, and so impressive and awe-inspiring was the ceremony, that Greccio assumed the name of a second Bethlehem as the news spread far and wide.

Inspired by St. Francis, artisans and craftsmen began to make miniature manger scenes for their homes, and the creches spread all over Europe.

Whole families fashioned the little figures from wood or clay and created replicas of Bethlehem, as they imagined it would look. Often these scenes looked more like their own villages than the Holy Land.

In Naples, these creches developed into a fashionable art because of the interest of the Bourbon King.

Carlo III, who set the pace by the elaborate settings of the Nativity scene, which he had set up in his castle every Christmas Eve.

The members of the court took up the hobby of their king and soon all the great Neapolitan families were vying with each other to produce brilliant and lavish creche displays. They employed the talents of the best sculptors and the ladies of the great houses frequently made elaborate clothes of velvets and satins for the figures.

The most outstanding of these figures were produced in the workshops of Naples during the second half of the eighteenth century. The Metropolitan Museum has a large collection of them, which are usually on display during the Christmas season. Most of these are from the famous collection

The figures, an average of 12 to 18 inches in height, have pliable bodies of woven twine and wire, expressive faces. The limbs are of carved wood. The figures are dressed in 18th century costumes, enriched with jewels and embroidery. The heads and shoulders of the figures, modeled in terracotta and painted in flesh tones are credited to some of 18th-century Naples' finest sculptors: Giuseppe Sammartino and his pupils, Salvatore di Franco, Giuseppe Corti and Angiolo Viva.

Creches are also popular in other parts of Europe, notably Provence in France, and in Spain. But none has reached the high degree of artistic elegance of those of 18th century Naples.

The Legend of Christmas Tinsel

According to an old legend, a poor peasant woman, with many children, decorated a Christmas tree with such humble furnishings as she was able to gather, mostly berries and nuts and such odds and ends as she had managed to save up over the year. She labored far into the night trying to make her tree as beautiful as she could.

While she was asleep, spiders came and crawled from branch to branch trailing their icy webs behind them. To reward the woman for her devotion, the Christ Child blessed the tree and all the spider webs were turned into gleaming silver.

RED HOLLY BERRIES

A legend relates that on the first Christmas night, when the shepherds went to the manger, a little lamb following them was caught by the holly thorns, and the red berries are the drops of its blood that froze on the

In England, Boxing Day, the first weekday after Christmas is named from the practice of giving boxes of food, gifts and money to tenants, tradesmen and servants.

The Irish place lighted candles in their windows on Christmas Eve as a guide and an invitation to all, who like Mary and Joseph, may be seeking shelter.

Lithuanians cover their Christmas Eve dinner table with layers of straw in memory of the night in Bethlehem.

Tante Aria, the angels and the good star

In the olden days of France, in a province which was once a part of Burgundy, Franche-Comte, one of the gift-bearers is Tante Aria, the Air or Wind Mother.

It was the custom for Tante Aria to ride on an ass and bestow Christmas gifts which fill the children's shoes and stockings from the tree.

One of the lesser-known gift-bearers, Tante Aria is sometimes grouped with the angels and the Good Star. She is closely associated with the Christmas tree in various lands.

Such mother legends come to us from Indian lore related to the tree and the cloud-bird.

According to folklore Tante Aria is the cloud goddess and rides on the ass to wed the moon-god at the Winter solstice.

From this pagan past derive Christian customs: In Hungary children devoutly praise the blessed angels as bringers of the tree; in Poland the Good Stars from heaven play that role. The Mother Star is impersonated by a beautiful woman in a white robe and veil and is attended by Father Star, a patriarch who gives gifts to the children who say their prayers and sing their hymns correctly.

Glory to God in the highest

And it came to pass in those days that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David.

To be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were so afraid.

And the angel said unto them: Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host, praising God, and saying:

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another: Let us now go, even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard

Rosemary, dedicated to remembrance, is almost forgotten. In earlier days its silvery fragrance mingled with that of the holly, mistletoe and ivy in every home.

There are two variations to the Christmas legend concerned with rosemary. In one story, when the Christ Child's laundry was spread over a rosemary bush to dry, the plant instantly became evergreen and aromatic. In another version, it was the Virgin's blue cape that was spread to dry, and the white flowers of the herb became blue.

Who Will Rule?

Holly and ivy are grown in practically all countries of the world, and they are widely used as Christmas decorations. In one Yuletide legend, holly is considered to be "male" and ivy "female." Whichever is brought into the house first tells who will rule the house during the year.

Onion Skin

A Swiss farm custom foretells the weather for the year: On Christmas Eve a large onion is cut in half, then 12 layers peeled off carefully and each marked with the name of one month. Salt is then poured into each of the 12 onion cups. On Christmas morning the onion sections are examined. Dry salt indicates a fair month; wet salt, rainy weather.

Pennsylvania Germans during the holidays speak of Piesnickel. He is, in part, like Santa Claus with fur trimming on his clothes and a white beard. He carries bags of toys for good children and switches with which he lightly taps bad children.

Chinese annals recorded a comet visible for about 70 days in March and April of 5 BC, the approximate date when many theologians believe Jesus actually was born.

The Bible in certain places gives a hint of Messiah.

One passage so cited is 1 Chron. 21, 16: "And David lifted his eyes and saw the angel of the Lord standing between earth and heaven, and in his hand a drawn sword stretched out over Jerusalem."

A YEAR OF PEACE AND TRANQUILITY IN WHICH THOU WILT SET A BLESSING UPON THE WORK OF OUR HANDS.

ANCIENT HEBREW PRAYER

Golden rule has embraced all religions since 1300 b.c.

Throughout the centuries men of all faiths have acknowledged the Golden Rule as a vital, intrinsic part of their faith, and expressed it thus:
RAHMANISM — "If thou lookest toward justice, choose them for others what thou choicest for thyself. Blessed is the who prefers his brother before himself."
BRAMMANISM — "This is the sum of duty: Do naught unto others which would cause you pain if done to you."

JUDAISM — "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

"They followed a star..."

Scholars today ask: "Was it a comet, with its tail extended far southward like a sword?" They note that Flim, the Roman naturalist, classified one type of comet as "sword-shaped." Josephus, the historian noted that an AD 66 comet, perhaps Haley's, stood like a sword in the sky over Jerusalem.

"The simile may have been suggested to him by 1 Chronicles, but the shape of the comet apparently justified it," one historian-writer has observed.

When, according to the Bible, in verse 27, God "put his sword back in its sheath," perhaps the comet lost its tail, as they sometimes do.

Norse legend

A Norse legend tells how an arrow of mistletoe was used to kill the young god Baldur, who was protected against all injuries that came from the four elements. Mistletoe, which does not spring directly from air, fire, water or earth had the power to destroy him. However, the gods restored Baldur to life and his mother, Frigg, who was goddess of love and beauty, decreed that mistletoe should be a symbol of peace and that whoever passed beneath it would receive her kiss.

6 separate New Year's days

Six New Year's days in a year? Certainly — if it depends where you are at the time. Here they are:

1. January 1.
2. In that part of the Occident wherein the Greek Orthodox faith prevails Jan. 1 falls upon Jan. 13.
3. A traditional Chinese

New Year's celebration starts Feb. 8 and lasts to Feb. 13.

4. If you visit the country of Thailand, April 1, you'd find a great ceremonial festivity underway — nothing less, in fact, than New Year's.

5. In Arab nations, the Mohammedan New Year's is celebrated Sept. 4.

6. Sept. 10 is New Year's in the ancient country of Ethiopia.

New Year's day has been observed for over 500 years. Nearly everywhere and at all periods it has been a day of rejoicing.

Men's hearts beat as one when astronauts landed on moon

When the Wise Men watched with awe the brilliant stars in the heavens that wonderful night so many hundreds of years ago, it would have been lunacy for anyone to predict Man's landing on the moon centuries later. In fact, the word "lunacy" comes from the Latin word "luna," meaning "moon." Lunacy was supposed to be caused by changes in the moon. (And who knows? To some degree perhaps it is!)

To predict a world of peace, where men actually live in harmony with one another throughout the earth, would have amounted to lunacy, as well. Yet at Christmastime, every year, men of good will and indomitable faith continue to hope for such a world.

In it any farther-fetched than man's dreaming of landing on the moon? For if ever Man had evidence of oneness among humanity, he experienced it at moon-landing, 1968. Wise men today know it is one world.

Through modern technology and the magnificent courage of astronauts, man on the moon became a reality.

Through God-given gifts, man has achieved this awesome milestone. A fragile craft, launched from Earth, floating in a galaxy of a billion billion stars, found its way through a thousand million galaxies, each with a trillion stars and planets, and came to rest, to hover over the Moon! Through God-given gifts (most of which man chooses to ignore) Man can achieve the even more miraculous...

Superstitions

Christmas decorations remind us of old beliefs. In England people kept a sprig of holly in the house after the holidays to protect the house against lightning. Mistletoe was likewise kept in the house as a guard against witches. People in rural areas were known to wear a bit of mistletoe tied in a tiny bag about the neck as a witch repellent.

The musical tradition of Christmas

The musical tradition of Christmas is believed to have begun in 129, when Telesphorus, Bishop of Rome, decreed that "in the holy night of the Nativity of our Lord and Savior, (all) do celebrate public church services and in them solemnly sing the Angel's Hymn...

Since then, literally thousands of carols have been written by such as Sir Walter Raleigh, Martin Luther, Johannes Brahms, Francis Scott Key, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Pope Pius IX.

But Christmas songs weren't called carols until well into the 13th Century, because, during most of the Middle Ages, priests and monks did all the singing inside the churches.

The people were only allowed to sing and dance outside, making up words and tunes about the birth of Christ. The French word "carole" and the Italian "carola" both mean a ring dance accompanied by singing, and from this comes our word carol.

The first American Christmas-carol was written by a French Jesuit missionary named John de Brebeuf. He composed a song called "Jesus Is Born" for the Huron Indians with whom he worked in the early 1600s.

Toys, tools call for safety at Christmas time

Toy Safety

Toys are supposed to delight and entertain children. But often playthings become instruments of danger, running a child's delight into hurt. Every year about 150,000 children and adults are taken to hospital emergency rooms for toy-related injuries, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Over 1,800 toys have been banned from sale by the Commission. However, with some 5,000 new toys introduced each year, you can help safeguard your child from accidents through careful toy selection and by supervising younger children when they're at play.

It is important to select toys appropriate for the age and development of the child. Chemical and electric toys, for example, should be purchased for older, more mature children. Many toys have age group labels on the package.

Toys for infants and small children should be chosen with extra care. They should be too large to be swallowed and have no detachable parts, which could become lodged in the ear, nose or throat. It is also a good precautionary measure to look for toys labeled "non-toxic." Look for cloth toys labeled "flame resistant" or "flame retardant."

Be aware that some toys may have sharp edges and points or may have hidden nails, wires or pins which may be easily exposed. Remember that many toys are potentially dangerous to a child when misused, so children should know how to use their toys properly.

Power Saw Safety

There are over 50 million power tools in use in workshops throughout the country by everyone from weekend handymen to professional carpenters. The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that over 40,000 people annually receive hospital emergency room treatment for injuries sustained from either stationary or powered portable saws.

The most frequent injuries are cuts to the hand, but often they are more serious and result in accidental amputation of fingers. Failure to ensure that electrically powered saws are properly and adequately grounded can result in a fatal shock.

and tried to break his fall by grabbing the table. Instead, his hand hit the blade and several fingers were cut off.

Always use the guards that are furnished with saws and use push-sticks during ripping operations. Safety Smokey Says:

glasses help protect eyes from flying chips of wood or metal and will keep sawdust from temporarily blinding the operator.

When changing a blade, cleaning or repairing a saw, unplug it first. In some cases, people turned off the switch, started working on the saw and mistakenly turned the switch back on. Develop a healthy respect for any power saw, remembering that it was designed to cut wood and can even more easily cut through human flesh and bone.

Patrol Predicts 10 Road Fatalities For Christmas

TALLAHASSEE — It is estimated that 10 persons will die in Florida traffic accidents during the 30-hour Christmas holiday period, said the Florida Highway Patrol today.

This estimate is based on fatality experiences during the past three Christmas holidays along with a 17 percent decrease in traffic fatalities observed during the first 11 months of this year.

The official countdown begins at 6:00 p.m., Tuesday, December 24, 1974, and ends midnight, Wednesday, December 25, 1974.

"Drivers face greater dangers of vehicle accidents during the month of December than any other month of the year," advised Colonel Eldridge Beach, director of the Patrol. The Patrol Commander said a maximum number of troopers will be patrolling the highways and the FHP airplanes will be used extensively during the holiday period.

"Enjoy the yuletide season, but when you are in your automobile, take every precaution. Leave early, avoid heavy traffic whenever possible, keep a watchful eye for pedestrians and above all, if you drink, don't drive," concluded Colonel Beach.

At this joyous

Food for beasts

Among the holiday customs in many European lands is the one of putting out sheaves for the birds and giving all the farm animals an extra portion at Christmas.

Some legends attribute this happy custom to an old pagan superstition... a fear of evil spirits and a desire to appease them!

Another, more reasonable conjecture is based on the spirit of love which embodies Christmas... as personified by St. Francis of Assisi.

History records that the custom originated with this good friar. Quoting from records of his followers...

"We who were with blessed Francis... bear testimony that many times we have heard him say, 'If I were to speak to the Emperor, I would... tell him for the love of God... to make a special law that no man should take or kill sister Larks... that all... the Lords of castles and villages should be bound every year on Christmas Day... to throw wheat and other grains outside the cities and castles... and that for the reverence of the Son of God.'

Be careful at Christmas

Christmas Safety

Christmas is the merriest time of the year for most of us. But every holiday season homes go up in smoke, children swallow decorations and people receive shocks when stringing electric lights.

To prevent Christmas gaiety from turning into disaster, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission recommends that you consider the following safety tips:

• Evergreens become very flammable when dry, so make sure the tree you buy is fresh by checking the needles for brittleness. Store the tree outdoors until you are ready to put it up. Water will get to the limbs of the tree better if you cut about one inch off the trunk. Keep the tree well watered and away from heat sources. Take the tree down right after Christmas or as soon as it shows signs of drying out.

• If you are going to buy a plastic tree, look for a label stating the tree is "flame resistant" or "flame retardant." While metal trees are not flammable, they do conduct electricity. Use colored spotlights rather than electric lights on a metal tree. No matter what kind of tree you have, make sure it is not blocking an exit or doorway.

• Many holiday accidents are caused by trees catching fire as a result of defective or overheated electric lights or defective electric cords. If your electric lights are getting old, or the electric cord is frayed it's better to replace them than take a chance on getting shocked or starting a fire. When shopping for new lights, check for a label stating that they have been safety approved by a reputable laboratory. Indoor lights should never be used outdoors. Keep extension cords out of the reach of children and away from walkways. All lights should be turned off before leaving the house or going to bed.

Analysis of actual case histories conducted by the Commission, reveals that a large percentage of Christmas injuries occurred among children who bit into a decoration or swallowed one whole. Small and breakable ornaments and lights should be kept far out of the reach of children and pets.

The magical cherry tree

In the days of the Christ Child's birth much of the known world was under the dominion of Rome. The people paid taxes to the Roman Empire.

Christmas

Fill this season with laughter, good will and song. Warm thanks from us, to all.

Tilford Flying Service

A few weeks before her child was due, Mary and her husband, Joseph, plied their weary way to Bethlehem to pay their taxes.

-On the way, Mary asked Joseph to pluck some cherries from a tree which, as if by magic, blossomed and bore fruit before their eyes.

Wearied from miles of walking along the dusty road, and anxious to reach the city before dark, Joseph refused.

Patently Mary again asked him to pluck the cherries. When he again refused, the tree bent down its branches so that Mary could reach them.

Awed and struck by this miracle, Joseph reverently sank to his knees and asked forgiveness of his Lord, and of Mary. Now he realized that the baby soon to be born must indeed be the Son of God.

Boar's head

A traditional feature of the Christmas festive table is the boar's head. This legend, told in Queen's College, Oxford, provides a basis for the tradition:

A student, walking and reading in the woods on Christmas Day, was attacked by a wild boar. He overpowered the boar by choking it with his book, a volume of Aristotle. Then he cut off the boar's head to retrieve his book and brought the head triumphantly to table.

Be aware of the angels abiding

Not all the angels are celestial beings, though we honor the heavenly host, especially at Christmas-time.

Angels are for all times, and for all places. Most of us have a "personal angel" guarding us, a mediator with the Creator in time of stress.

But there are other angels. For example, when someone speaks rudely to you, and you do not respond with rudeness, an angel has visited you, illuminating your mind and heart with understanding. You realize that this person is troubled, is perhaps fearful, that there is a break of communications that would only be widened if you respond in kind. An angel helps to "build bridges" among humankind.

When you feel or see beauty, you are host to angels. And when you create beauty in the midst of darkness or evil, you belong with the seraphic group itself.

When you overcome the fears and doubts that assail all of us so-called "civilized" beings, if you rise to heights of achievement in spite of forces of lethargy and other self-protecting devices, you are in the company of angels.

This Christmas try to move thoughts away from self. It is so human to think of "Number One" first. We are all subject to this temptation. But this Holy Season we can make an effort to be more giving.
